AUTHOR QUESTIONNAIRE Marketing Department

Book Title:

Subtitle:

Your name as it should appear on book:

Are you the author, editor, co-author, or co-editor?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Please attach a current curriculum vitae along with any other information you consider pertinent to this project.

It is helpful to have photographs on hand of our authors. If you have one available, we would appreciate receiving one.

ABOUT THE BOOK

1. Succinctly describe your book's scope and purpose in two to three paragraphs or (200-300 words). This will help us prepare catalog copy, cover copy, and promotional material for your book.

2. What is unique or different about your book that we can/should use as sales bullets? In at least three, separate, brief statements (ten to twelve words each), please list the most important points to stress about the content of your book.

3. When promoting a book it is helpful to have advance comments from other writers, scholars, colleagues, and opinion-makers in your field. Please list names and COMPLETE, up-to-date mailing and e-mail addresses for those from whom you would like us to solicit comments. If you already have endorsements for this book, please attach them to this form.

MARKET PROFILE

For what audience is this book written?

Which academic/professional (or other) groups will it appeal to?

Which non-academic/professional groups will it appeal to?

Do you know of any books that compete with yours? If so, please list the author, title, year of publication, and publisher for each book and tell us how your book differs.

INFORMATION FOR PROMOTION

Please list journals/magazines that should receive a review copy of your book or a press release. Please list these in order of priority.

As a supplement to our standard list, please provide the names and address (phone number and e-mail, too, if available) of your local institution's public relations representative, local newspapers, regional magazines, and radio and TV stations that should receive a press release announcing the publication of your book.

Please list domestic journals/magazines in which it would be appropriate to place advertisements to reach your primary audience.

Please list domestic meetings/conferences where we should exhibit your book. Indicate those where you will be speaking, and those you regularly attend.

Electronic Publicity

Please list any electronic mailing lists, Usenet groups, newsgroups, or WWW discussion forums to which it would be appropriate to post information about your book. Indicate whether you will post this information or whether you want EDUCA to do so. If the latter, please provide an address, name of moderator, and any "netiquette" of which we should be aware.

Are there web pages—either of review media or institutions—that feature mentions of books to which it would be helpful to link when promoting your book? If so, please give the URLs. Also, include any personal websites which should be linked to your book's page on our website.
